

The Kinetics of Christmas
(Philippians 2:5-11)

Though equal in essence with Almighty God
And worthy of deity's glory and laud,
Christ emptied himself of His lordly prestige
To rescue the earth from sin's terrible siege

That child of the manger came down to the earth,
A genuine man by miraculous birth,
And lived without sin in this unholy place
While feeling the pain of our sin and disgrace.

He lived out God's love in a sin-tainted land,
While treating His will as a sacred command;
Then offered himself with obedient tears
To die on the cross for the sins of the years.

And after He'd tendered the price for our sin,
God saw to it He was exalted again;
He gave Him more glory than that of the past,
And vowed every tongue would confess Him at last.

So cherish the thought of that first Christmas Day—
How God the Son humbled himself in that way.
And bow down and worship the great Three-in-One.
The Father, and Spirit, and glorified Son,

Bud Morris
12/13/06

Copy and Distribute Freely. More at www.ChristianPoetique.com
Bud Morris, 800 E Eighth Street, Delavan, IL 61734-9316 (309) 244-7471