

You Reap What You Sow

Galatians 6:7-9

If life were a garden
We'd only want seeds
That reproduce nicely
Without any weeds.
We'd pick them and plant them
With infinite care,
Because what we planted
Is what would grow there.

Paul planted the gospel,
Apollos helped out,
And God gave the increase
Beyond any doubt;
But justice demands,
And God wants us to know,
Whatever we're doing,
We'll reap what we sow

So if you've been planting
Corruptible seed,
Just lift up your eyes
And look at the need.
The harvest is great,
And the laborers few;
And if you're a Christian,
God's counting on you.

And when you are tempted
To turn from your plough,
Just think where you came from,
And where you are now.
Recall what you planted
Along the broad road,
And what it cost Jesus
To reap what you sowed.

And if you're not saved,
Christ is waiting for you;
He suffered and died
For the sins you would do
But if you neglect
A salvation so vast,
There's nothing else left
But to harvest your past.

Bud Morris

11/11/01